Surgical Hemostat (TDM-621): CE Marking Certificate Issued

(This original disclosure in Japanese was released on January 15, 2014 at 8:45 (GMT+9))

This is to announce that CE Marking Certificate for the company's surgical hemostat "TDM-621" has been issued by a third party notified body of CE Marking to our subsidiary in EU, 3-D Matrix Europe SAS, as of January 14, 2014.

This CE Marking is a required indication to distribute medical devices in the European market, which shows such products comply with safety standards. Under this certificate for TDM-621, our company can start to distribute our hemostat to EU countries. It is also an approval for export to EU and we are starting manufacture the products in Japan to export them to EU.

The European market which our product can be sold is estimated to be approximately 100 billion yen. Furthermore, it is possible to apply for approval in several countries in Oceania and ASEAN with this CE Marking certificate and without clinical trials. Even though applying for manufacturing and marketing approval in Japan is still under review, we are promoting our business expansion globally. For full-scale sales in EU market, we are also planning a clinical research on a small scale and an exclusive license to a distribution partner.

This certification does not highly influence the earning forecast of the company at this moment. Our mid-term business plan including the effect of the certification is currently under review and will be disclosed soon.
